Pupils Mothers Organize.

Friday afternoon the mothers of pupils attending the Webster school met at the school and perfected an organization for the purpose of securing better co-operation between the mothers and teachers and to meet any school problem that might arise.

Mrs. C. E. Culver, vice president of the Parent Teachers' Association, was elected president; Mrs. J. S. Francisco, vice president; Mrs. T. D. Osborne, secretary; program committee, Mrs. J. E. Harper, Mrs. J. A. DeArmond and Mrs. E. B. Silvers; social committee, Mrs. Frank Ream, Mrs. H. H. Harshaw and Mrs. T. D. Osborne. The club will hold regular meetings the second Friday in each month.

Ida M. Tarbell for Wilson.

"President Wilson is the first real progressive leader—using that term in its modern sense—that America has produced," declared Miss Ida M. Tarbell in an announcement of her intention to do all in her power to insure the reelection of President Wilson. The noted author and editor, who has earned world-wide recognition as one of America's most intellectual women, was an ardent worker in the Progressive cause in 1912. She is still a Progressive in thought and in action. That is why she is for Wilson.

President Wilson's Sister Dies.

Mrs. Annie E. Howe, sister of President Wilson, died at New London, Connecticut, Saturday, September 16. The body was taken to Columbia, South Carolina, where funeral services were held Monday. President and Mrs. Wilson attended the funeral.

The officers of the Bates County Old Settlers Association held a meeting in this city Saturday and appointed committees to make final arrangements for the Old Settlers meeting to be held in the court house yard Wednesday, October 4. The meeting this year promises to be the best one ever held by the association. Prominent speakers will be engaged, good music will be provided and a regular old fashioned good time will be had.

New Corn and Hog Cholera.

Hogs often take cholera soon after being put on a ration of new corn, and its use is often condemned on this account. New corn alone is not the cause of hog cholera, but it may be a factor, along with other conditions, that helps weaken the vitality and renders the animal less resistant to disease. In order that new corn may be fed with safety, the animals should be put in a healthy, vigorous condition before time to begin feeding.

When the animals are in a thrifty, growing condition, there should be much less danger but the herd should be gotten on full feed gradually. It is well to give them about a stalk of corn per hog the first day, gradually increasing it by one stalk a head every other day so that it is getting two stalks the third day, three stalks the fifth day, and so on until they are on full feed.

This gives the stomach time to adjust itself to the new ration and is a specially good thing to do before turning old hogs into the field to hog down corn. It is less necessary in case of the shoats which are not so likely to overfeed because they do not have the weight and experience which enable them to break down the stalks very rapidly.—E. R. Spence, University of Missouri College of Agriculture.

Missouri A Poultry State.

Missouri claims to be the leading poultry state of the Union. The farm flocks and specialized poultry plants combined represent a business amounting annually to about $50,000,000. Most of this sum comes from the sale of eggs and poultry out of the farm flock. One instance cited in this issue is that of a family at Windsor having an income of $50 a month largely from poultry, as a sideline handled by the "women folks" on a 400-acre stock farm. There are other examples of success on tracts as small as three acres and up to thirty, showing that intensive handling of fertile lands with garden truck, fruit and poultry is a paying business, besides furnishing good living for the family.—The Southwest Trail.

John Krinn, of the Farmers Bank, last week received the information that C. R. Wolfe, a brother of Marshal Wolfe, had died suddenly of heart failure at his home in Banner, Wyoming. Mr. Wolfe was a former resident of this county, being one of the first mayors of Rich Hill.

"The Madcap" is the name of the picture to be shown at the Electric Theatre next Monday. Flora Parker DeHaven, the popular Broadway star is in the title role supported by a strong company. "The Madcap" is a story of a rich young girl who tires of the doings of society and seeks excitement in doing the unconventional, and her adventures furnish an abundance of thrills.

In a letter, enclosing a check for renewal of his subscription, W. W. Steele, of St. Louis, says: "The Times is like wine—it improves with age—and although it has been over fifteen years since I left the Old Burg I am always anxious to see the 'Big Weekly.'" Mr. Steele is assistant farm loan officer with the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., one of the largest financial institutions in the west.
